REASON FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The closest prior art are the following non-patent literatures:

- a. Dan Littman, "HP Ships New Network Cards for Old Printers", February 10, 1999

Littman disclosed, "a printer...has an embedded Web server that allows a network administrator to monitor and control the printer from a Web browser via the Internet. It also receives print jobs via the Internet, a process that is somewhat like using the printer to receive faxes without long-distance connect charges"

- b. Cheryl Currid. "Turn on your Web printer", Information Week, Manhasset, Jun 29, 1998, Iss. 689; pg. 162, 1 pgs

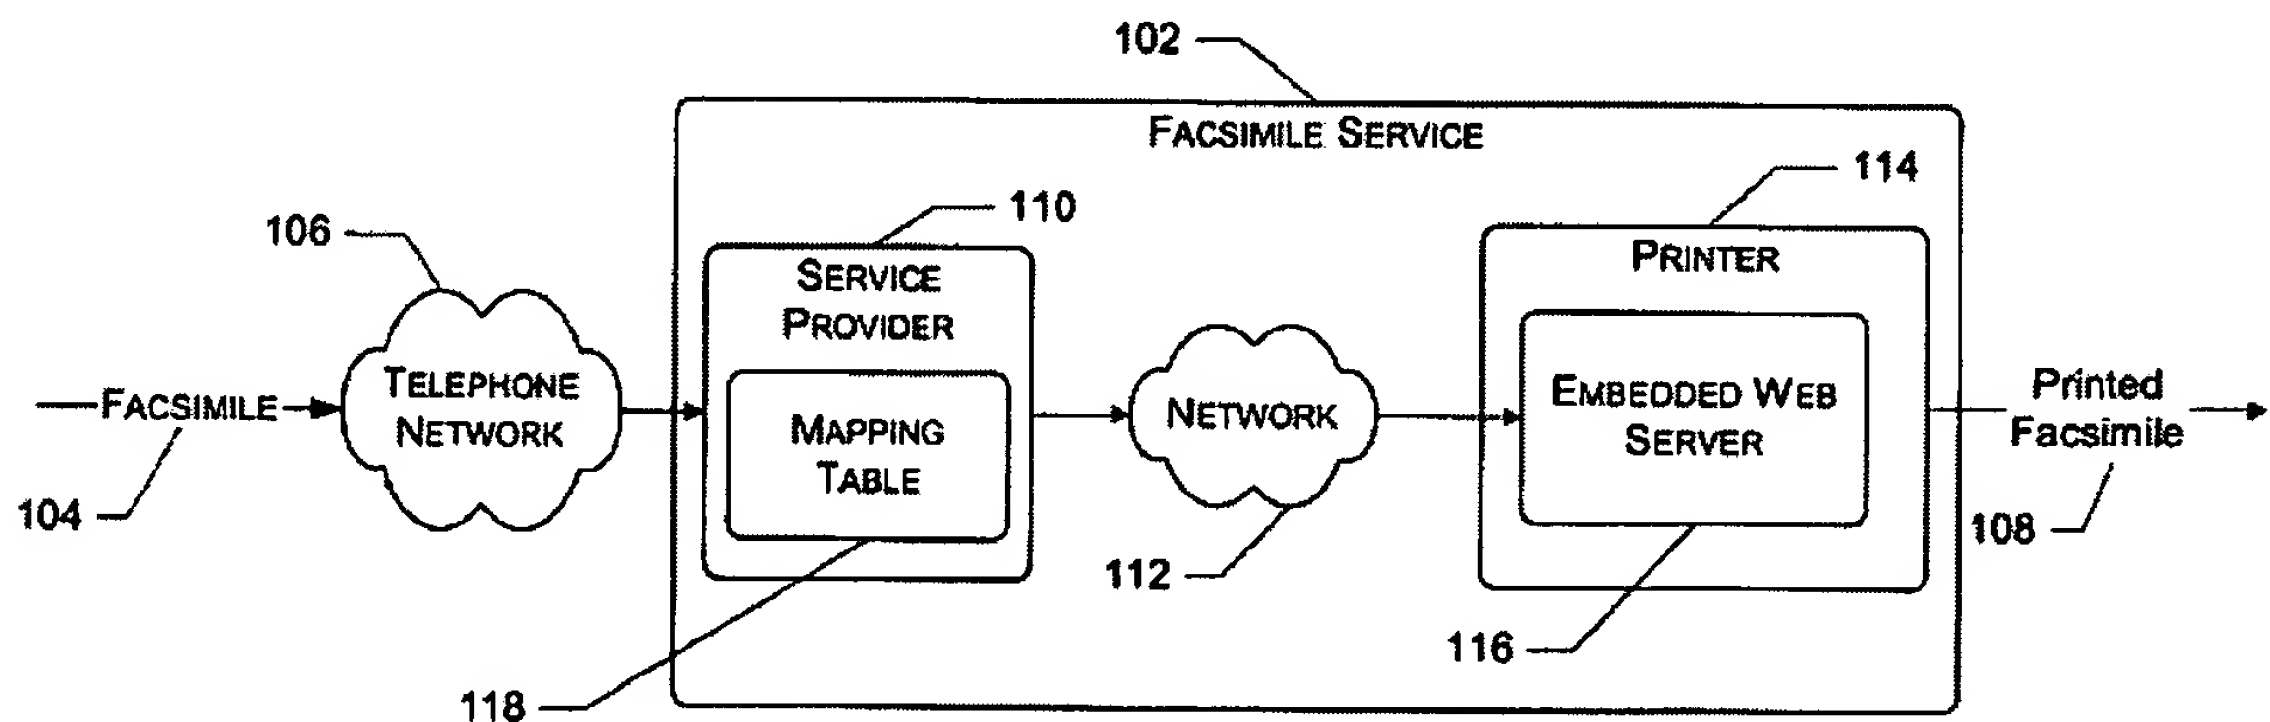

Currid disclosed, "...Try looking in the Web server built inside many of today's network printers. You simply give it a TCP/IP address and let its internal software take over. Type in the TCP/IP address from any browser, and you can print to it from anywhere around the globe.

Art Unit: 2144

Both the teachings of Currid and Littman are similar to the claimed invention in a sense that the printer has EWS (embedded web server) allowing a user to remotely send print jobs directly to the desired printer anywhere on the network having therein the EWS to directly print the desired print job.

However, None of the prior art of record taken singularly or in combination taught or suggested An embedded web server in a printer in combination with printing a facsimile message sent to a telephone number, the message been converted from a fax format to a printable format and wrapped in HTTP and communicated to a URL mapped with the telephone number, the URL identifying the embedded web server in the printer and print the facsimile message accordingly. See Applicant's Remark Page 16

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on a Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
